The Brady Brief - Protecting Consumers

Dear Friend,

This Congress has been dedicated to protecting the rights of America's consumers and ensuring that our families and children are safe from toxic toys, food, and drugs. Congress has taken numerous steps to enact or strengthen guidelines to protect you from dangerous business practices, and I have proudly supported each one.

As students head back to college, families head out for back-to-school shopping, and we continue to improve health care, I wanted to highlight the strong consumer protections enacted by this Congress.

- Enacted a Bill of Rights for credit card holders
- Made student loans more affordable
- Ensured better product and food safety with the Consumer Product Safety Improvement Act
- Reformed our financial system, demanding accountability from Wall Street
- Curbed abusive and predatory mortgage lending practices
- Provided critical funding and updated tools to help law enforcement pursue and prosecute mortgage and corporate fraud

In addition to these measures already passed by the House, Congress is working on other pieces of legislation to dramatically improve our country's system for ensuring the safety of imported food and drugs. I am committed to ensuring consumers like you are protected, and I will continue to fight for your rights.

Sincerely,

Robert Brady
Member of Congress
